

FROM THE MAYOR'S DESK

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS,

AS YOU KNOW, SGT. CORY WRIDE WAS KILLED WHILE SERVING OUR COMMUNITY ON JANUARY 30TH.

The story of his death is a tragic one, and it is difficult to reconcile with the quiet and peaceful community we all call home. It is especially difficult to understand what kind of darkness resides in someone's heart to make them capable of such action. From the time of Cory's shooting to the day Cory was laid to rest, I made some observations and I would like to share my perspective with you.

I did not know Cory or have a personal relationship with him. I simply knew that he was a public servant who took an oath to protect and serve others. In the days after his death, I came to know many things about Cory, and it is now clear to me that he was a man of character. He loved his family deeply. He loved his brothers and sisters of the Utah County Sheriff's Office, and he loved serving our community.

I believe in giving honor to people who believe in the principles of integrity, kindness, and serving others. From the stories shared by so many, we know that this was Sgt. Cory Wride's character.

One of the unique attributes of Eagle Mountain City is that we honor and serve others. It is part of our community's fabric. It is our identity. I have seen this quality through the welcome home processions that usher our returned soldiers through a corridor of flags. I have seen this quality in the way we show kindness to our friends and neighbors when they are in need.

Following this awful event, I have seen it in the memorial set up on the side of the road, the wonderful attendance at the candlelight vigil, the outpouring of support offered to our Utah County Sheriff's division, Cory's family, and the family of injured Deputy Sherwood. These observations have been a great encouragement to me.

I know there are many family members and friends that will carry on in strength, though there will be a void that was once filled by this good man. My heart breaks for Cory's wife and children, and also for our Utah County Sheriffs deputies and support staff that continue to serve us faithfully. The Sheriff's personnel here in Eagle Mountain have proven themselves to be professional, courteous, and dedicated to the mission of community service. Their service is not only focused on law enforcement, but also administering community programs, supporting City events, organizing volunteers, emergency response, and public protection.

I can only offer them my gratitude for their daily efforts, though they are deserving of far more.

A line of future shoppers awaited the opening of Eagle Mountain's first full-service grocery store, Ridley's Market, on January 21. The first 200 customers were given a free bag of groceries.

What's next for the Porter's Crossing retail center?

With the opening of Ridley's Market last month, residents are asking what to expect for additional development of the Porter's Crossing Town Center. On February 11 a proposal from the developer was reviewed by the planning commission for a new retail building that will be located immediately east of the Ridley's Market/Ace Hardware building.

The building, expected to begin construction in early March upon City approvals, will have space for up to five tenants. The developer has not authorized the City to make an announcement of names of businesses that will be locating there until contracts are final. Construction is expected to be completed on the new building in June.

Additional retail pads are planned. A site plan for the Porter's Crossing Town Center is available on the City website, Agendas & Minutes section, under April 2, 2013 City Council meeting documents.

EASY is a law which limits youth access to alcohol in grocery and convenience stores. The Utah County Sheriff's Department, in cooperation with Communities That Care, conducted local alcohol sales compliance checks in December. We would like to thank Chevron Holiday Oil and Maverik for requesting ID and refusing to sell alcohol to the underage buyer. Keep up the good work! For more information about this program, contact CTC Coordinator, Caryn Nielsen at 801-888-9147 or cnilsen@saratogaspringscity.com.

Kindergarten registration help

Do you have a child going into kindergarten in the fall? To register them, you will need to have a copy of their birth certificate and have their vaccinations up-to-date. The Utah County Health Department (UCHD) can help! Copies of birth certificates can be obtained from our offices in Provo (151 South University Ave) or American Fork (599 South 500 East), or by going online to www.UtahCountyHealth.org and clicking on "Birth/Death Certificates."
